DICKENS IN DUBLIN

MON DEC 12TH AT 7PM

A one-man theatre show written and performed by Laurence Foster. Charles Dickens, born Feb 7th 1812. By the age of 19, he had become a reporter, recording the parliamentary speeches of Daniel O'Connell, retaining a lifelong mutual admiration. He also became a devotee of the works of Thomas Moore. In August 1858, the first of three lengthy visits to Dublin, he was hailed with delight everywhere he went. He found it difficult to make his way from Morrison's Hotel through the crowds who were queuing to see his performance in the Rotunda Concert Room. Dickens in Dublin is a recreation of that dramatic evening in Ireland's capital city. Booking essential via Eventbrite.
