Wednesday 30th October, 6.30pm

An initiative by the Back of the Pipes Residents group in designing, constructing and landscaping a community market-garden at Reuben St. in the Dolphin's Barn/Rialto area of Dublin, has beautifully recreated in miniature what much of this area looked like a short 100 years ago. But why is this community garden called "Flanagan's Fields"?

Join Historian, Cathy Scuffil as she reveals the story of a man who grew up in a small farm holding in Greenhills, and whose legacy remains in the city today.
