The Eccentric Energy Show with Dr. How's Science Wows

Saturday March 2,
10.00am & 11.30am
Wednesday March 6,
3.30pm

There are three opportunities to catch this special show for Engineers Week. The Eccentric Energy Show is as eccentric and amazing as it sounds. There will be balls bouncing, sticks leaping, fireworks popping and toilet rolls flying all over the place. You'll see things you never thought were possible, but it's not magic... it's SCIENCE! This is an interactive show, aiming to get the audience as hands-on as possible while they learn about all the different types of energy, what wacky things we can do with them and how they are transferred. And to finish it all off you can watch Dr. How set her custom built Eccentric Energy Machine in motion and see how many different types of energy will be used to pop one single balloon.

For ages 7+

The two sessions on Saturday March 2 are currently fully booked but if tickets become available you can book them at talib.eventbrite.ie
